

DAD SAYS HIS SON 'DAMAGED' BY HOMOSEXUAL INDOCTRINATION AT STATE-SPONSORED PROGRAM

By Jim Brown
February 9, 2006

Note from Pastor Kevin Lea: Parents beware! The Homosexual community is after your children. They live a short life of misery, and misery loves company. They can't have children of their own to spread their filthy lifestyle, so they are using the educational system of this country to spread their lies to your children.

I strongly encourage you to find out exactly what your children WILL be taught before allowing them to participate in school and after school programs. If the curriculum will include a favorable view of the homosexual lifestyle, then in obedience to God you should pull them from the class (2 Cor 6:14-18).

Homosexuality is a learned trait. It has been proven that homosexuality is not genetic. For example, many studies have been done in this area pertaining to identical twins. It has been shown over and over that one identical twin can choose to live the unnatural life of a homosexual while the other twin is perfectly satisfied with a normal heterosexual lifestyle. This would not be possible if homosexuality is a genetic condition because identical twins have identical DNA and therefore identical genetic makeup.

(AgapePress) - Two Christian parents say their son was a victim of homosexual indoctrination at the prestigious "Governor's School of North Carolina."

The Governor's School of North Carolina describes itself as "program for intellectually gifted high school students, integrating academic disciplines, the arts, and unique courses." But one North Carolina couple is suffering some after effects of their son's involvement in the program. Jim and Beverly Burrows say after their son attended a Governor's School seminar called "The New Gay Teenager," he began telling them he was unsure of his

"sexual orientation."

The parents believe the seminar was intentionally scheduled as the last optional one before classes ended in order to leave a strong, lasting impression on the students and bypass any parental notification about the seminar.

Jim Burrows says he noticed a big difference in his otherwise normal son upon his return from the school.

"He [said he] was thinking now that he perhaps was gay -- and of course I was floored by this [pronouncement] and was, like, 'where did this come from?' This kind of came out of left field," the dad says. After questioning his son for an extended period, Burrows says he discovered the source. "I found out that this was as a result of this seminar."

According to Burrows, his son was instructed by two openly homosexual staff members of the Governor's School to question his sexuality as well as Bible passages that condemn homosexuality. And the students were also encouraged by instructors to start a Gay Straight Alliance club at their schools, he says.

The North Carolina dad explains that his son's subsequent struggle with homosexuality has turned his family upside down. "As far as our family is concerned, the damage has already been done," he laments. "There's no way that we can go back and undo what has been done."

Still, Mr. Burrows feels he needs to warn other parents of the homosexual indoctrination his son encountered at the Governor's School. "If I can keep one other family from having to go through this, then all this trouble has been worthwhile," he says.