

Why Is Russia Building 5,000 More Nuclear Bomb Shelters in Moscow by the End of 2012?

Note from Pastor Kevin Lea: The excerpt of this news item is followed by a commentary by Mark Dinsmore. Mark does a great job in warning the reader about the coming events, while offering great advice from a Biblical perspective.

Russia certainly seems to be in a hurry to prepare for something. RT is reporting that 5,000 new nuclear bomb shelters will be constructed in the city of Moscow by the end of 2012. Russian authorities believe that these new shelters are urgently needed because the current nuclear bomb shelters will only hold approximately half the population and are quite outdated. In addition, there are apparently very few nuclear bomb shelters for those living outside the city center at this point. Officials want virtually the entire population of Moscow to be able to reach a bomb shelter within a matter of minutes. But in this era when the “Cold War” is supposed to be over, why are 5000 nuclear bomb shelters such an urgent necessity?

But it isn't just Russia that has been busy building bomb shelters. A few years ago, Shanghai's Civil Defense Office announced the completion of an absolutely massive underground shelter. It was reported that the shelter covers an area of over 90,000 square meters and could accommodate up to 200,000 people at a time.

But that giant shelter is not even as big as the “Underground Great Wall” that was built during that 1960s and 1970s. It is estimated that the “Underground Great Wall” contains 19 miles of tunnels and shelters and could hold up to 300,000 people. It reportedly has a munitions warehouse, a hospital, a theater and even a library.

So what about the U.S. government? Are they building any bomb shelters for us? No.

Basically, Americans are sitting ducks. Whether it is a rogue nation launching a nuke or a full-out nuclear war, Americans literally have nowhere to go. In the event of a nuclear attack, most of us would be lucky to have enough time to duck and cover and say our prayers.

Mark Dinsmore's comment:

“To Be Found of Him in Peace”

Though not intended for the general population, the U.S. has indeed been very busy building and expanding plenty of bomb shelters, called “DUMB” bases, or “Deep Underground Military Bases”, from Alaska to New York. (Believe it or not, one exists underneath the new Denver airport, which was “built wrong” and then literally BURIED under tons of earth and concrete, and then built again on top.) FEMA has also been actively and aggressively planning for COG (Continuity of Government) for years.

The problem is, the powers that now “be” are not planning for “continuity of America” -- just continuity of the shadow government. (See the movie, “Deep Impact” for a fictional example of this “COG” preparation. Unless you are of high rank or a high-value scientist, you’re not going to be protected. In fact, they will be glad when most of the “muggles” are gone. The irony in this movie is, they call the shelter the “Ark.” Same thing with the Chinese-built “Arks” in the fictional film, “2012.” I emphasize “fictional,” simply to encourage discernment—even though aspects of these film plots are based on actual COG plans.)

Should Bible-believing Christians be angry or afraid?

Shock and anger is understandable, but fearfulness, no. The fact that our government does not plan for the safety of our nation’s population should tell us that it is not governed “by the people, for the people,” but “by the elite, for the elite.” No real surprise there.

Thomas Paine, credited as the man who “masterminded” the American Revolution, was not a Christian man. In fact, as his book, “The Age of Reason,” clearly demonstrates, Paine was an anti-Christian with utter contempt for Scripture and a wholesale rejection of the God that His Word reveals. Not surprisingly, then, the elite plan for America (if the Lord tarries or allows) is to eliminate most of the population—not only in the United States, but world-wide.* Could this fact tie in to Bible prophecy?

The good news for believers is that our eternal future is secure—and not only that, Scripture is clear: God has not appointed us unto the day of wrath (1 Thessalonians 5:9). The coming time of “Jacob’s trouble” (see Jeremiah 30:4-11) and Great Tribulation does seem to include either thermonuclear war, and/or a meteor or comet impact event (see Mark 13:20, for example).

During this time, the elite shadow government and its international allies and billionaire businessmen alike appear to be described in Revelation:

“And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?” (Revelation 6:15-17).

So, should we stockpile food, ammunition, and “head for the hills?” That depends on what God is telling you to do. My personal conviction is that reasonable preparation for a time of great depression and “civil unrest” is wise; however, we cannot possibly prepare for every eventuality, nor is our mission here “survival at all cost.”

Like the whole “election vs. predestination” argument, it is a bit of a paradox to harmonize verses which instruct us to “take no thought for tomorrow” regarding food and clothing (see Matthew 6), with those that clearly instruct us to provide for our families, which requires both foresight and effort (1 Timothy 5:8), and put up supplies for “winter” (Proverbs 6:6-11), as well as to protect them from evil, (Proverbs 22:3), and to warn others when we see danger approaching (Ezekiel 33:2-6).

Clearly, we cannot build a case on any single verse, but we must take into account the whole counsel of God, and our response and convictions are going to vary in doing so.

However, in my opinion and conviction, simply “doing nothing” for most who say they are “trusting God” is not a model of faith, but of foolishness. As believers who “see the evil approaching,” we all need to be doing something to protect our families, and to redeem the time. Men, even if we do not have any regard for our own bodies, what about our wives? Our children? Our grandchildren?

However, we need not panic. God has not given us a spirit of fear, but of sound mind (2 Timothy 1:7). To help put this in perspective, the most immediate and likely trial facing the United States and the world is not Armageddon. As the passage above indicates is pointless for anyone to prepare against—but a time of severe economic and even societal collapse, which will be for a shorter period of time.

How is this possible in America, the most powerful and prosperous nation on earth? Entire books have been written documenting our departure from God. Only 8% of professing evangelicals (less than 2% of the population) has a biblical worldview—of who God is and what Christ did.

How long will these “hard times” persist? Only God knows—but one thing appears clear, the America we’ve known and loved is vanishing before our eyes. Should our emphasis be “restoration” or “preparation”? And preparation for what?

First of all, as I’ve emphasized, spiritual preparation. Memorize God’s Word. My wife and I are beginning to each commit an entire (shorter) chapter of Scripture to memory. This goal was partly inspired by the films, “The Book of Eli” and “Fahrenheit 451” as well as the biblical admonition to “hide God’s Word in our heart.” The fruit of this will be evident, for both personal and corporate edification, evangelism, and discipleship; to share God’s word, speak it, teach it, and live it.

Next, emotional and mental preparation. We need to begin divorcing ourselves from the comfort of this world, and the idea that we can all “retire” with a paid-for house and money in the bank that we can pass on to our kids, with “dream” vacations and cruises to enjoy in our golden years. In all but the rarest of cases, the government will ensure that this does not happen without the heaviest of taxation (confiscation).

Third, physical preparation. It’s going to be a difficult transition, perhaps not too unlike the Great Depression. By God’s will and His grace, it is possible to weather the storm in the harshest of circumstances. But do any of us want to see our loved ones suffer? How long will the coming economic storm last before we see “recovery”?

If I had to guess, I’d say a minimum of 3 to 6 months of serious danger, followed by perhaps 1 to 2 years before the “new normal” becomes stabilized. Keep in mind once again, that the goal of the New World Order is not to completely crush and annihilate everything, but to control it and make it “prosper” again (in terms defined as prosperous by the NWO). To the elite rulers of the globe, humans are nothing but “capital” to be herded and branded and fed, as long as they are productive members of society.

We should also recognize that any or all of our preparations are subject to destruction or confiscation by thieves or a renegade government under FEMA (which is the provisional government, by unlawful Executive Orders, during any kind of emergency, including economic collapse).

For believers, it is important to know and believe that our trust is not in the storehouse, and yet as Scripture indicates, it is certainly wise to have one. Consider also the example of Corrie Ten Boom and “The Hiding Place.” Our “storehouse” may be for a time, for a season; it may be for ourselves, it may also be for others to whom we can minister.

Does this sound bleak? Perhaps. But consider the decades of suffering our brothers and sisters in Christ have endured in so many other nations of the world, for centuries. Why should American Christians be somehow “exempt” from similar treatment, which is, in fact, promised to those who actually follow Christ?

When will all of this transpire? We don't know the future. The length and difficulty of the trial will depend in large part on the level of resistance to the New World Order. Based on my research and a general consensus of other economists and researchers, as well as the stated goals of globalist thinkers, it seems that the window to accomplish this is roughly between 2012 and 2023. If that sounds like a long time into the future, it's only a span of between two and 12 years from now. So, again, should the Lord tarry, anyone of good health that lives a full life, who is presently 63 years or younger, stands to see the New World Order arrive in living color.

Think of it another way. If the world is a chess board, with the kings of the earth conspiring together to take it over, then we are in the classic phase of the event known as the "end game." In the end game, the outcome is inevitable; the length of time it takes to place the opponent in checkmate is only a matter of time. In other words, the defenses have already been infiltrated, and the weaker king is merely evading capture, but will eventually be cornered and forced to capitulate.

A number of popular prophecy teachers, for whom I still have great respect, have taught for years that the church in America would "go out on top" of a period of unprecedented prosperity. The rapture of believers around the world, but especially in America (as the world's leader in banking, military, and technology) would then trigger a world-wide catastrophe from which would emerge a New World Order and global governance.

Now, however, all but the most ardent kingdom-dominionists see the handwriting on the wall. America the great is fallen, is fallen—by deceit and treachery and design. The elite who control the world's wealth, who are capable of crashing entire economies and overthrowing empires, have now turned their sights on the final piece of the puzzle that will complete the drive toward a global government: the formerly rich and fiercely independent United States of America.

So, what will the economy look like after the "fundamental transformation" is complete?

If I were to make any predictions, I think this will mean the "best" in terms of technology and entertainment in every home. Even the poorest individuals in society will have fancy video phones, and most will have wide screen TVs in the house. A 32-inch screen will be considered "small" by most standards. There will be "green" energy, far less travel, high taxation, but plenty of cheap toxic food and unlimited entertainment options.

So in other words, after the dust settles from the destruction of U.S. sovereignty, what is left of the states (already divided by FEMA into ten regions with ten governors answering directly to Obama), there will still be commerce and Hollywood and plenty of sports to watch. (Football fans, never fear—the Super Bowl shall not vanish from the face of the earth.)

No, I'm not being "schizophrenic" -- just trying to practically reason, from current events and Bible prophecy, what a likely scenario may be. Think of it this way. Today's youth are being raised with incredible "Big Brother" technology already in their hands and in their homes (though not quite yet in their heads). Though well on the way, the vast intelligence network has yet to be "finalized" in order to create a global "hive mind" and super-surveillance system that dominates the nation—and the world.

So, while the Internet will likely be taken down during a major catastrophe of any kind, for a period of up to six months (as illegally determined by FEMA) it will most certainly be brought back up when it is "safe" for everyone to network again. Except the rules (and surveillance settings) will have fundamentally changed. Surprise!

As one example of preparation for an even bigger and “better” Big Brother world, we know that Facebook is building a massive new center in little ole’ Prineville, Oregon. Why Prineville of all places? Could it be because it is “out of sight, out of mind” and also away from major population centers that may be significantly (and adversely) affected in the near future?

So, please don’t mistake what is coming (or at least, what I’m warning against) for the “apocalypse” -- we’re not going to be wandering in a barren land like Mad Max. However, if the Lord tarries, it is highly likely that we’ll see global governance through “regions” and a new currency, and perhaps new borders, with a new government and new rules. Think European Union, with increasing Islamic invasion, and you’ll get an idea of the next generation in America (again, should the Lord tarry).

Tragically, those Patriots who resist government with violence during this transition will likely be met with the brutal reality of a Stalinist approach to population control, and suffer equally violent separation from family, followed by imprisonment and even death. As I’ve covered in the past, the “Patrick Henry” solution is not a biblical one, nor is it the calling of believers.

The good news that all of this “change” will bring true revival and a gathering of the remnant church in America, which is good—but there will also be the greater gathering and “revival” in the false church of America—including neo-prophets and neo-apostles uniting with the neo-Marxist globalists for “good works” in the name of Christ, but without the gospel. Ecumenical inter-spirituality will mix with signs and wonders in the name of Christ, paving the way for the final church of Antichrist.

True churches, where the gospel is preached and the Bible is revered as the Word of God, will mostly go underground. This will be one of the “mental adjustments” you should be preparing you and your family for now. Children and grandchildren, especially, will need to be weaned from milk, and given strong meat at an early age, in order to withstand the increasing persecution and deception that is coming.

What will you do when you have to meet house to house in “cell” groups, but are not permitted to park on the neighborhood street for a religious meeting? Think this will not happen in America? It already has in suburbs of San Diego, Phoenix, and other cities.

Large auditoriums will continue to be filled with spectacles of lights and sound—perhaps even serving as community hubs for the distribution of government-approved messages of hope and good cheer to all, complete with government-supported good works, vaccines, and “nutrients.” One can easily see how the apostate church will become the ruling church in America, and even around the world (both figuratively and literally) because it will be “aligned” with the social gospel of governmental good works. This will be a form of spiritual fornication, bringing professing Christians into an unequal yoke, perhaps even eating “meat” sacrificed to idols, in the form of the Eucharist.

So, contrary to the perception that all is “doom and gloom,” I lean towards this scenario: that after an orchestrated collapse to crush the sovereignty of independent nation-states, the world will return once again to a level of peace and prosperity (as defined by the New World Order, not by today’s measure). In fact, the coming years may shortly come to be viewed as abundantly prosperous by a generation who no longer remembers the “good ol’ days” of pre-collapse America. (It doesn’t take long; for example, we only have a few surviving soldiers who fought in WWII, and the youth of today don’t have a clue about the events of that generation.)

Though Christ could return for His Bride tomorrow, remember that God is longsuffering, not willing that any should perish (2 Peter 3:9). If the Lord’s longsuffering extends another generation or two, then it is easy to see how our coming years of present and impending global depression and collapse (perhaps from 2008 to 2028) will soon become as distant a memory to future believers as the 1930s and 40s are to us today.

But this is not our hope. We look not for a kingdom now, nor a kingdom “restored” by our own good works, false brotherhood, and forced “love.” May we be like the saints in the Hebrews “Hall of Faith,” who “desire a better country, that is, a heavenly one” (Hebrews 11:16). Please keep in mind, that none of these date ranges are “prophetic,” nor are they “date setting.” No man knows the day or the hour of our Lord’s visitation, except the Father. However, we are exhorted to look for and understand the signs of the times, and upon seeing such, to look up.

But I grow daily more and more convinced, as I hope do my brothers and sisters in Christ, that whether His return is in 24 hours, 24 months, or 24 years, it’s time to look up, for the hour is late, and our redemption draweth near. How do we wish to be found when our Lord returns?

“But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up.

“Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?”

“Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness. Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless” (2 Peter 3:10-14).

To be “found of him in peace.” That is our Lord’s will for the Bride of Christ—what a contrast to the fear and anger being presently stirred amongst and by many who call themselves “Christians” and “Patriots” who seem hell-bent on violent confrontation.

Though we are all faced with daily distractions and overwhelming change from all sides, we are not to be anxious, but to cast our cares on Him (1 Peter 5:7). As the songs, and Scriptures speak—we don’t know which way the wind blows, nor the events of tomorrow, but we know who holds the future.

*For just one example of how the elite in this world (and America!) think, take a look at the mystery and significance of the Georgia Guidestones. My own independent research has confirmed much of the research produced by the author of this excellent exposé:

<http://vigilantcitizen.com/?p=5496>

Sinister Sites: The Georgia Guidestones

By Vigilant | November 15th, 2010 | Category: Featured Posts, Sinister Sites | 190 comments

The Georgia Guidestones is a mysterious monument on which are carved ten “commandments” for a “New Age of Reason.” The first commandment? Maintaining the world population under 500 million people. Another sinister fact: the authors of what we now call the American Stonehedge are still a “mystery”...

except for those in the know. We will look at the numerous features of this monument, its message calling for a New World Order and explain how it is the work of an occult secret society.

Note: One of the first articles I ever wrote on this site, back in late 2008, was about the Georgia Guidestones. I removed the article about a year ago, however, when I came across some vital information: the explanation of the rules written by the hidden authors themselves as well as other documents. So if you are a long-time reader of this site, please keep reading as I've re-written the entire article.

The Georgia Guidestones is an enigmatic granite monument situated in Elbert County, Georgia. Also known as the American Stonehenge, the gigantic structure is almost 20 feet high and is made of six granite slabs, weighing in total 240,000 pounds. The most astonishing detail of the monument is however not its size but the message engraved into it: Ten rules for an “Age of Reason.” These guides touch upon subjects that are associated with the “New World Order,” including massive depopulation, a single world government, the introduction of a new type of spirituality, etc. The authors of those rules have requested to remain totally anonymous and, until now, their anonymity has been duly preserved. However, this mysterious group left a text explaining the reasoning behind the rules, a text that was not discussed online before. With this new information, the purpose behind the Guidestones become very clear, leaving little room for hypotheses. The Guidestones describe the ideal world, as envisioned by occult Secret Societies. The monument is therefore proof of an existing link between secret societies, the world elite and the push for a New World Order.

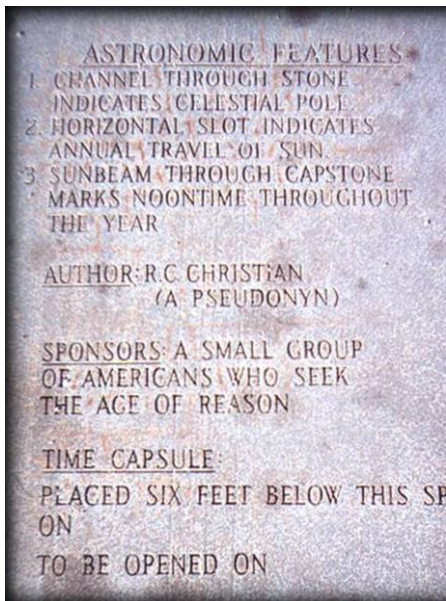

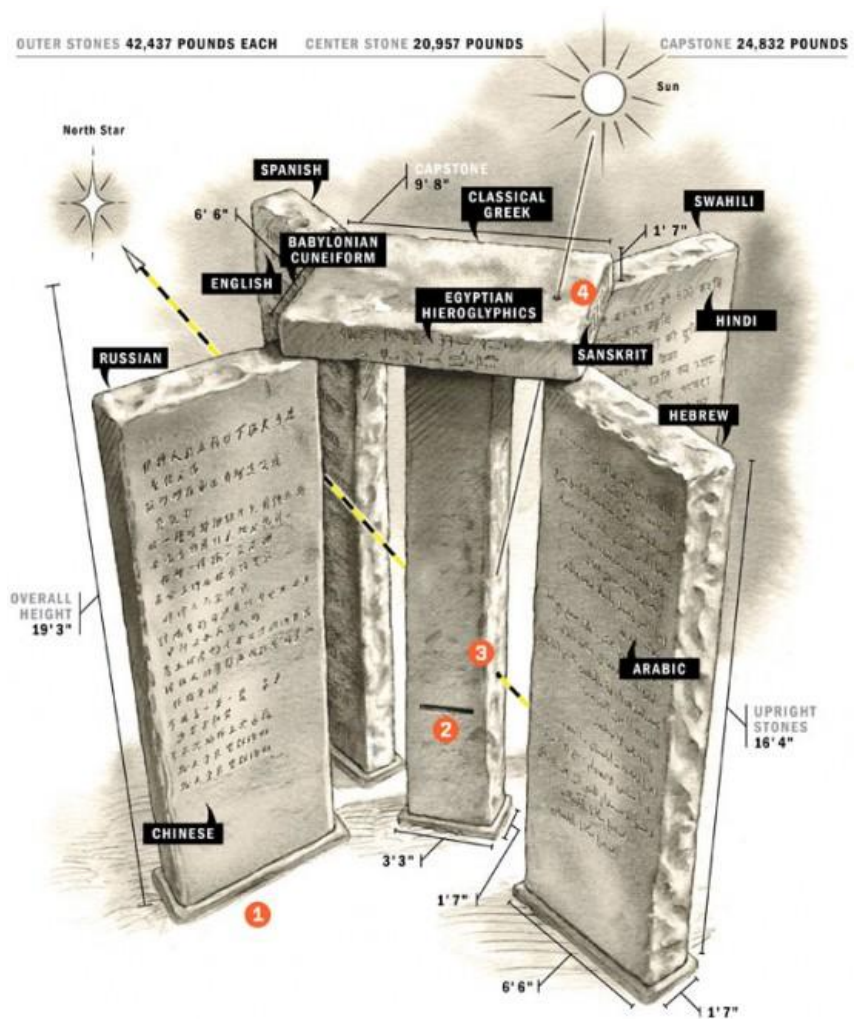

The Monument

Quietly standing in Elberton county, the Guidestones will probably gain in relevancy in the next years

Made of Pyramid blue granite, the Georgia Guidestones are meant to withstand the test of time and to communicate knowledge on several levels: philosophically, politically, astronomically, etc. It consists of four major stone blocks, which contain ten guides for living in eight languages: English, Spanish, Swahili, Hindi, Hebrew, Arabic, Chinese, and Russian. A shorter message is inscribed at the top of the structure in four ancient languages' scripts: Babylonian, Classical Greek, Sanskrit, and Egyptian hieroglyphs. It is important to note that those last four ancient languages are of a great importance in the teachings of occult mystery schools, such as the Freemasons and the Rosicrucians, organizations I will discuss later.

The four major stones are arranged in a giant “paddlewheel” configuration which are oriented to the limits of the migration of the sun during the course of the year and also show the extreme positions of the rising and setting of the sun in its 18.6 year cycle. The center stone has two special features: first, the North Star is always visible through a special hole drilled from the South to the North side of the center stone; second, another slot aligns with the positions of the rising sun at the time of the summer and winter solstices and at the equinox. (Source: Wired)

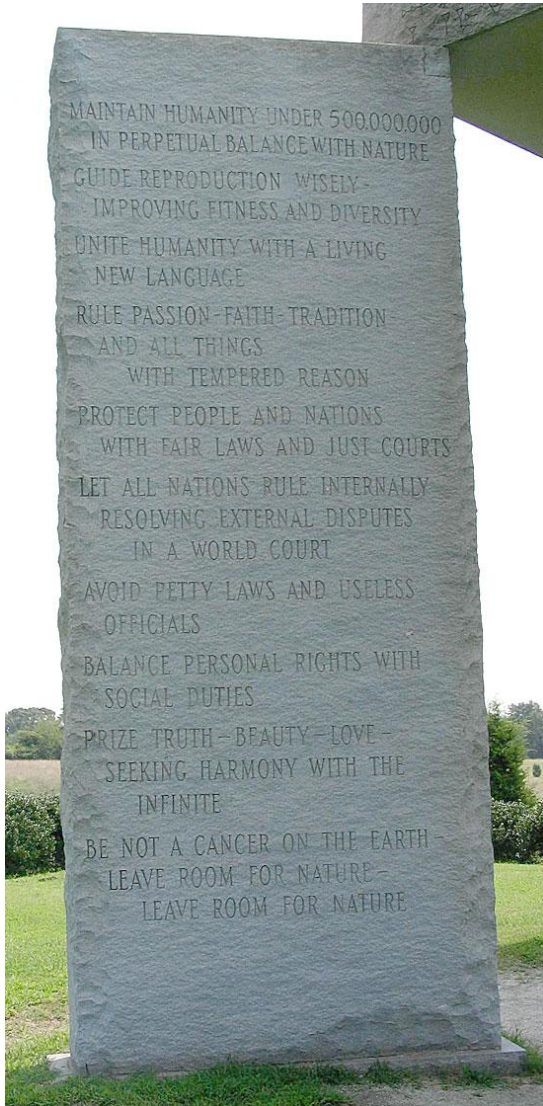

The explanatory tablet explains some of the features of the monuments and its authors (more on them later). The opening date of the time capsule has been left blank.

At the base of the Guidestones lies an explanatory tablet listing some of the details of the structure. It also mentions a time capsule buried underneath it. The contents of this time capsule (if it exists) are a total mystery.

Astronomical features are of a great importance in the design of the Guidestones. In a relatively “new” nation such as the United States, monuments that are aligned with celestial bodies are often the work of secret societies, such as the Freemasons. Drawing their teachings from the Mystery schools of Ancient Egypt, Greece or the Druidic Celts, they are known for embedding into monuments some of their “sacred knowledge”.

The 10 Commandments

The English version of the Guidelines

The ten guides for a new Age of Reason are as follows:

1. Maintain humanity under 500,000,000 in perpetual balance with nature.
2. Guide reproduction wisely – improving fitness and diversity.
3. Unite humanity with a living new language.
4. Rule passion – faith – tradition – and all things with tempered reason.
5. Protect people and nations with fair laws and just courts.
6. Let all nations rule internally resolving external disputes in a world court.
7. Avoid petty laws and useless officials.
8. Balance personal rights with social duties.
9. Prize truth – beauty – love – seeking harmony with the infinite.
10. Be not a cancer on the earth – Leave room for nature – Leave room for nature.

As you can see, the guidelines call for a drastic reduction of the world population, the adoption of new a world language, the creation of a world court and a vague allusions to eugenics. In other words, a blueprint for a New World Order.
