Note from Pastor Kevin Lea: This is another article that shows we are fast approaching the day when we will be forced into subjection to a powerful, tyrannical police state. The Scriptures predict this will happen in the last days, when the Antichrist rules the world. As we see in this article, the global surveillance infrastructure is nearly in place. We must be getting very close to the days depicted in Daniel and Revelation, which culminate in the Second Coming of Jesus. Maranatha!!

*If anyone does not love the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be accursed.
O Lord, come!* [Aramaic: "Maranatha!"] - 1 Corinthians 16:22 NKJV

Author John Whitehead has a terrifying new book out called "Government of Wolves: The Emerging American Police State." The basic thrust and premise of the book is that America's basic freedoms are under heavy assault on all fronts, and are in danger of being washed away entirely.

He outlines exactly what these various attacks are, how they are manifesting themselves, and precisely how we are being kept under round the clock surveillance at this point, by our own government and forces cooperating with them (mega corporations). There are more than just these touched on in the book, but to provide a brief overview, among others, these are just some of the ways you are being tracked, around the clock in the "land of the free."

Based on your consumer activities: Federal and State law enforcement agencies have begun acting in partnership, sharing data collected on you, and they've collected a lot of data in an attempt to identify what they term as "suspicious persons."

What kinds of things can land you on the "suspicious persons" list, you ask? Great question. It turns out that it could be almost anything, up to and including people buying pallets of bottled water, photographing government buildings, and applying for a pilot's license. Major retailers are getting in on the fun as well, and are often eager participants.

Big Box retailers like Target have been tracking and assessing the behavior of their customers for years. In 2015, mega-food corporations will be rolling out high-tech shelving outfitted with cameras in order to track the shopping behavior of customers, as well as information like the age and sex of shoppers.

Based on your public activities: It's not hard to see which way the wind is blowing. Following the lead of big government, private corporations are jumping into the fray as well, negotiating incredibly lucrative contracts with various law enforcement agencies (at all levels) around the country.

The major goal here is to create an interlocking, utterly inescapable web of surveillance that encompasses all major urban centers. Companies like NICE and Bright Planet are selling services, expertise, and equipment to police departments with the promise of monitoring large groups of people seamlessly (think protests and rallies).

They are also engaging in extensive online surveillance, looking for...
