Scientists worldwide are creating bizarre human-animal hybrids that could wreak havoc on society. In the past ten years alone, unforgettable advances in the field of genetic modifications have left researchers and on-lookers stunned.

Nowadays, it is possible for a couple of university-age students to concoct new life forms in the comfort of their own basement. Regrettably so, laws have not been able to keep up with the pace at which scientists have been toying around with their creations.

In turn, the entities being created are not at all illegal but by all means could pose a risk to society by and large. There is no telling what may happen if these life forms are allowed to mate. Still, eagerness can be seen in the eyes and minds of scientists on a global level just waiting to unleash their next creation to the world, that all seemed liked fantasy just a short time ago.

To give a concrete example, scientists have made mice with an artificial human chromosome “in every cell of their bodies”. Such an act is being praised as a “breakthrough” which may lead to different cures for a wide scope of disease. As reported by Lifenews.com, University of Wisconsin researchers have had much success by transferring cells from human embryos into the brains of mice. These very cells began to grow, and in time made the mice more intelligent.

The mice showed that they were able to solve a simple maze and learn conditioning signals at a more enhanced level than if compared to before their transformation. Critics are quick to question whether a practice of injecting parts of humans in animals carries more benefits than risks.

Even now it is apparent that growing human organs inside of animals is not science fiction...

A note from Pastor Kevin Lea: Greek and Roman mythology includes many creatures that are half human, half animal. Most people will emphasize the word “mythology” when discussing these elaborate stories from antiquity. But others are wondering if there is some truth to these “myths”.

What if this is not the first time that demons have inspired people to mess with God's creation by mixing DNA from mankind and animals? Some would counter that man did not have the knowledge to do these kinds of things in the past. How do we know that? Or, what if the demons themselves did it and then unleashed their genetic experiments on the world at that time and then deceived the people into worshipping the demonic players and their idols. I recommend this fifty five minute youtube clip if you want to understand more of what people are doing today:

The more I become aware of the power and deceptions of Satan, and man's willingness to worship and follow Satan's lies, the more I believe that anything is possible. Even God said that nothing fallen man proposes to do will be prevented from happening when they are united in their efforts to pursue evil.

And the Lord said, "Indeed the people are one and they all have one language, and this is what they begin to do; now nothing that they propose to do will be withheld from them. Come, let Us go down and there confuse their language, that they may not understand one another's speech." (Genesis 11:6-7) NKJV
