INTELLIGENT AI robots are coming - and they will have the ability to perform religious ceremonies and could even turn against humans, experts have warned.

CCPO Note: As this article reports, artificial intelligence and robotics are making their way into religion, facilitating our ability to create "gods in our own image." Shockingly, some churches are already using this technology for Bible-teaching and preaching. The Catholic Church has even endorsed the use of apps that facilitate the act of confession. Believers understand the dangers in this, discussed below. It is not hard to imagine how this amazing technology will play a part in instituting the one world religion of antichrist (Revelation 13:11-15). Believers also recognize the heresy and blasphemy in going to anyone or anything as a substitute for our only High Priest, Jesus (Hebrews 2:17, 3:1, 4:14-15, 5:5, 5:10, 6:20, 7:26-27, 8:1, 9:11, 10:21).

As AI becomes more prominent in our day to day lives, it wasn't going to be long before the worlds of religion and tech merged.

The thought of robot gods and ChatGPT sermons terrifies some people – and rightly so, according to experts. Wesley Wildman, Professor of Philosophy, Theology, and Ethics, and of Computing and Data Sciences at Boston University, told The Sun that he believes AI will soon be able to perform religious duties even better than human priests. He said: "AIs will write better sermons than most preachers, give better Bible studies than most teachers, create amazing music and visual art for use in services and communications that struggling religious groups don't have to pay for." The likes of ChatGPT have already reportedly found their way into churches, writing thoughtful and authentic sermons on behalf of the priests. And the listeners were none the wiser.

Wildman explained that AI will have the ability to …
